Department of Public and International Affairs
香港城市大學
City University of Hong Kong

A Tat Chee Avenue, Kowloon, Hong Kong
T +852 3442 6355
F +852 3442 0180
E pia@cityu.edu.hk
W cityu.edu.hk/pia

31 August 2026

Dear Students,

The department places the utmost importance on academic honesty. I would like to issue a gentle but firm reminder on the issue of academic honesty and some related departmental policies on assessment.

Academic dishonesty is regarded as a serious offence in the department. According to Section 4 of "Rules of Academic Honesty" (https://www.cityu.edu.hk/pvdp/ah/ah-rules.htm), academic dishonesty includes but is not restricted to the following behaviours:

1. Plagiarism, e.g., the failure to properly acknowledge the use of work of another person/product/tool (including results generated by artificial intelligence (AI) where the use of AI tools is allowed in an assessment task) or submission for assessment material that is not the Student's own work or submission of substantially the same material (even a portion) for credit in more than one assessment task without proper acknowledgement;
2. Misrepresentation of a piece of group work as the Student's own individual work;
3. Collusion, e.g., allowing another person to gain advantage by copying one's work or working with another Student during an individual assessment;
4. Unauthorised access to an examination/test paper;
5. Possession/use of unauthorised material in assessment, e.g., use of the AI-generated result that has not been expressly permitted or such use has gone beyond the defined parameters prescribed by the Course Leader;
6. Unauthorised communication during assessment;
7. Use of fabricated data claimed to be obtained by experimental work, or data copied or obtained by unfair means, or AI-generated fabricated citations and references;
8. Impersonating another Student at a test or an examination or allowing oneself to be impersonated;
9. Contract cheating, e.g., employing or using services/tools provided by a third party in graded coursework or at a test or an examination; and/or
10. Use of fraudulent documents and/or information to gain advantage for any academic work, e.g., submission of a fraudulent medical certificate to request for a make-up examination.

……/2

The department would not condone or tolerate any of the above behaviours and would report them to the College Academic Conduct Committee, imposing a penalty on the offender. The penalty includes, without limitation, expulsion from the University, debarment from re-admission, deprivation of an academic award already conferred, or revocation of a certification granted. A record of the case would be kept in the student's personal file.

Teaching staff can make reference to it when they write evaluations or recommendations for the student's application for jobs and further studies. Aside from the penalty imposed by the College Academic Conduct Committee, the department may refuse to recommend the student for activities such as internships, exchanges, summer school programmes and/or not employ the student as a student helper…etc. The department may take further disciplinary action without limitation as deemed appropriate.

To assist you in upholding the standards of academic honesty, I would like to draw your attention to several important aspects that require your consideration and collaboration:

1. Plagiarism
   Plagiarism is the most common form of academic dishonesty. Please go through the relevant sections of "Rules on Academic Honesty" (https://www.cityu.edu.hk/pvdp/ah/ah-rules.htm) carefully. A set of explanatory notes on academic honesty is given in the Attachment; please also go through the document carefully.

   As part of the University's efforts to educate students about academic honesty, all CityU students must complete an online tutorial, fill out the online quiz and submit the online declaration. The University has launched a new website on Academic Honesty – http://www6.cityu.edu.hk/ah/. Please take time to read it carefully and make sure that you have fulfilled the University requirements.

   If you have any questions, please discuss them with any of your teachers, your Programme Leader, or Prof. Chih-Wei HSIEH cwhsieh@cityu.edu.hk, our Departmental Examinations Officer.

2. Using Generative AI (GenAI) Tools in Assignments
   Following recent updates to the University's Guidelines on the Use of Generative Artificial Intelligence Tools in Learning and Teaching, the use of GenAI tools is permitted in all formative assessment tasks, but not for summative assessment tasks. While exceptions may arise, please be advised that Course Leaders have been instructed to establish clear parameters regarding the use of GenAI tools within their courses and to communicate these parameters to you. When these parameters are communicated, regardless of whether verbally or in writing (e.g., through course outlines or Canvas announcements), you will be held accountable for any violations. Therefore, if you have any doubts concerning the use of GenAI tools in assessment tasks, I encourage you to seek clarification and guidance from your teachers.

……/3

It is pertinent to note that Grammarly, previously regarded as an assistive AI tool, is now equipped with GenAI features. As a result, its usage is also subject to the University's Guidelines on the Use of Generative Artificial Intelligence Tools in Learning and Teaching, alongside other prominent GenAI tools.

3. Using Translated Materials
It is a serious offense to use materials translated from Chinese or other non-English sources, including your own writings, without proper acknowledgment in an assignment. Students are required to quote the original text in the assignment concerned for such use. For any text not entirely translated by the student concerned, proper acknowledgment must be made about using any online/machine translation tool, such as Google Translate. Any violation of the above requirements will be regarded as a case of plagiarism and academic dishonesty.

4. Submission of Coursework Assignment
All students are required to submit their coursework assignments in soft copy to the staff concerned via Canvas, through which a clear record of student submissions can be maintained. This will also facilitate online checks for plagiarism by the staff concerned. I understand that some Course Leaders or Tutors may require you to submit the assignments in hard copy. Please do not hesitate to contact them if you have questions about the submission procedures.

You are reminded that if you are required to submit a hard copy, it MUST be identical to the soft copy submitted via Canvas. It is an act of academic dishonesty if a student submits two different versions to give the marker a false impression that the assignment is free from plagiarism, to gain extra time in completing the assignment without approval, or to mislead the marker in other ways. The department will not condone this kind of misconduct and will take disciplinary action against students who commit this offence.

Besides, suppose in a course assignment, you need to draw on ideas and materials from your previous work submitted for another course or publication at CityU or elsewhere. In that case, you must make a proper acknowledgement in the same way as if you were using the work of another person. Suppose you do not acknowledge the source appropriately. In that case, you will be subject to disciplinary action, especially in case you are found to have resubmitted a significant part of your previous work in a course assignment. You are required to demonstrate substantial effort in completing a course assignment to get a passing grade. So, you are strongly advised not to recycle your previous work even with proper acknowledgement.

Please note that the above policies apply to all course assignments, including Special Projects, MA Dissertations, and Capstone Projects.

5. Minimum Requirement for Passing a Course
   The department has eliminated the mandatory requirement to pass both coursework and the final examination in favour of adopting a more flexible approach, effective from Semester A 2024/25. Course Leaders will be granted autonomy to determine the criteria for achieving an overall passing grade in their course, based on their pedagogical considerations.

6. Mitigation Requests for Assessment
   The Department has a rigorous procedure for considering students' mitigation requests and will only consider genuine extenuating circumstances accompanied by valid documentary proof. The document proofs MUST cover the date(s) of the original assessment(s).

Yours faithfully,

Professor Michael Jinghan ZENG
Head
Department of Public and International Affairs

Encls.

Explanatory Notes on Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

1. Academic honesty

   Students who commit an act of academic dishonesty which jeopardises the integrity of the learning and assessment process may be charged and liable to disciplinary actions. The following are examples of dishonest behaviour with respect to academic work.

   - Plagiarism, e.g., the failure to properly acknowledge the use of work of another person/product/tool (including results generated by artificial intelligence (AI) where the use of AI tools is allowed in an assessment task) or submission for assessment material that is not the Student's own work or submission of substantially the same material (even a portion) for credit in more than one assessment task without proper acknowledgement;
   - Misrepresentation of a piece of group work as the Student's own individual work;
   - Collusion, e.g., allowing another person to gain advantage by copying one's work or working with another Student during an individual assessment;
   - Unauthorised access to an examination/test paper;
   - Possession/use of unauthorised material in assessment; e.g., use of the AI-generated result that has not been expressly permitted or such use has gone beyond the defined parameters prescribed by the Course Leader;
   - Unauthorised communication during assessment;
   - Use of fabricated data claimed to be obtained by experimental work or data copied or obtained by unfair means, or AI-generated fabricated citations and references;
   - Impersonating another student at a test or an examination or allowing oneself to be impersonated;
   - Contract cheating, e.g., employing or using services/tools provided by a third party in graded coursework or at a test or an examination; and/or
   - Use fraudulent documents and/or information to gain an advantage for any academic work, e.g., submission of a fraudulent medical certificate to request a make-up examination.

   Students are expected to present their own work, give proper acknowledgement of others' work, and honestly report findings obtained. Students are required to act truthfully and honestly in academic pursuits. Students who are found to have violated the principle of academic honesty will be subject to academic disciplinary actions.

2. What is plagiarism?

Plagiarism is one particular form of academic dishonesty. Plagiarism means 'to take (words, ideas, etc.) from someone else's work and use them in one's own work without admitting one has done so' (Longman Dictionary of Contemporary English, 1987). Written work must be presented in a proper manner and must adhere to academic conventions concerning the use of quotations and references. All work that is submitted will be assessed on these grounds. All students must pursue their studies with academic honesty, which is central to the conduct of academic work. In general, plagiarism is copying the work of another person without proper acknowledgement. The nature of the source does not matter. It may be a book, an article, a dissertation, a Government report, a table from the Internet, a memorandum, or simply an assignment of another student or even teaching material distributed to students. The source may also be graphics, computer programmes, photographs, video and audio recordings or other non-textual material. It does not matter whether the source has been published or not.

The source must be indicated at the exact place the ideas are being used. For example, suppose a set of ideas is being sourced from an author, and these are from a substantial part of a paragraph that a student is writing. In that case, the reference must come at the beginning of the paragraph and be made in such a way that the reader is clear that the ideas given in the paragraph come from the initial source cited. The reference cannot be vague, and it cannot simply be included as a reference at the end of the assignment.

According to Martin (1984:183-184), there are several kinds of plagiarism.

a. Word-for-word plagiarism

The most obvious and provable plagiarism occurs when someone copies phrases or passages out of a published work without using quotation marks, without acknowledging the source, or both. This can be called word-for-word plagiarism.

b. Paraphrasing plagiarism

When only some of the words are changed, the result can be called paraphrasing plagiarism.

c. Secondary sources plagiarism

When a person gives references to original sources, and perhaps quotes them, but never looks them up, having obtained both from a secondary source, which is not cited. This can be called plagiarism of secondary sources.

d. Ideas plagiarism

More general than this is plagiarism of ideas, in which an original thought from another is used but without any dependence on the words or form of the source.

e. Authorship plagiarism

Finally, there is the blunt case of putting one's name to someone else's work, which might be called plagiarism of authorship.

3. A student who is suspected of academic dishonesty will need to demonstrate a lack of fault on his / her part, rather than just simply denying or claiming forgetfulness. The extent of plagiarism in a given assignment will not be considered, so that plagiarism of one sentence will imply plagiarism in general.

Warning

All identified cases of plagiarism will be referred to the College Academic Conduct Committee. Students who are found to have committed plagiarism could be subject to disciplinary actions, including being expelled from the University with immediate effect.

4. How to do referencing

There are two ways to acknowledge the work of other writers, by direct quotation and by paraphrase.

a. Direct quotations

For a sizeable chunk (around 30 words or more)

- Indent the quotation (about five spaces from the left margin).
- Start on a new line.
- Use ellipsis (...) to indicate omission.
- No quotation marks are required.

b. Paraphrasing

Paraphrasing is when the writer of a paper takes points that have been made by another author and summarises them by putting them into his or her own words. Quotation marks are not used. However, it is essential that the source of the original material and ideas is given.

5. Referencing styles

Different disciplines and forms of publication use different conventions for punctuation, grammar, presentation, and the documentation of the work of others, and this can seem confusing. A crucial aspect for students is to adopt a consistent style in their academic writing. For this reason, PIA encourages all students to adopt the Harvard system of referencing, as laid out below.

In the Harvard style, a reference is made up of two parts: a short reference in the text of the document placed within parentheses and a fuller reference given at the end of the document. Remember that when using an in-text parenthetical reference, this reference must correspond to a source cited in the References list at the end of the document. The function of the in-text parenthetical reference is to give the reader information that will allow him or her to quickly locate the source in the References list.

Referencing in the text:

Source Details	Citation
Basic form: Author's last name and year of publication	(Cox 1997)
2 authors with the same name: Add an initial	(M. Cox 1997)
Specific page or section is cited: Insert comma after the date and then page number. Always include page number for quotes.	(Cox 1997: 21)
Two publications by the same author in the same year: Use a and b	(Cox 1997a) and (Cox 1997b)
Citing 2-3 authors: Include all names	(Cox, Cunningham, and Hatleberg 1997)

More than 3 authors	(Cox et al. 1997)
Multiple references in the same citation: Separate with semicolons	(Cox 1997; Cunningham 1996; Hatleberg 1996)

Referencing at the end

Harvard style Sources listed in alphabetical order by author's name and then by date.
Book	Citation
1 Author: Use form of name given on title page	Bagby, J. W. 2003. The cyberlaw handbook for e-commerce. New York: Harcourt Brace.
3 Editors	Baumer, David L., Julius Poindexter, and Janice Brown, eds. 2002. Cyberlaw and e-commerce. Boston: McGraw Hill.
4-10 Authors / 2nd Edition: List all names	Smith, John, Janice Brown, Chris W. Enkunde, and Lois Denmark. 2004. The history of the world wide web. 2nd ed. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.
Chapter in an edited multiauthor book:	Heller, Chris, and Andrea Gottlieb. 2001. Gender roles in Ethiopian culture. In gender in cross-cultural perspective, ed. Sherry Collier, 45-46. Louisville, KY: Pilgrim Press.
Dissertation	Citation
Unpublished	Fitzpatrick, Kerry J. 2003. Effects of mowing on the selection of raptor foraging habitat. PhD diss., Univ. of Maryland.
Abstract, found using a library database	Leahy, Gail. 1998. Inducing white blood cell production in the presence of radiation. PhD diss., Pennsylvania State Univ., 1997. Abstract in Digital Dissertations, publ. nr. AAT 2365548, DAI-B 59/06 (Dec. 1998): 2797.
Journal	Citation
In print-with continuous pagination: May omit issue number	Smith, J. L., and C. N. Farmer. 2004. Ways of coping with obesity: A ten-year study. Journal of the American Medical Society 291: 389-399.

In print: Journal without continuous pagination: Include issue number	James, E. W. 2000. Obesity in American schoolchildren: An epidemic. Journal of Nursing 48 (3): 26-44.
In print: Journal that uses issue numbers only-no volume numbers	Smith, Jane. 2001. Obesity among adolescents: A nationwide study. Journal of American Health, no. 12: 18-30.
Online-found through a library database: Include URL of main entrance of service and access date if required	Smith, Jane. 2001. Obesity among adolescents: A nationwide study. Journal of American Health, no. 12: 18-30. http://www.epnet.com/ (accessed June 23, 2005)
Letter to Editor	Citation
Print Source	More common to cite newspapers using parenthetical references. For example: "In her letter to the editor (Baltimore Sun, May 20, 2003), Melissa Jones stated that…" In this case, no citation would be needed. Otherwise, the citation in the reference list would be: Jones, Melissa. 2003. Letter to the editor. Baltimore Sun, May 20, 2003.
On the Web-found using a library database	Jones, Melissa. 2003. Letter to the editor. Baltimore Sun, May 20, 2003. http://www.epnet.com/ (accessed June 23, 2004).
Magazine Article	Citation
Magazine-weekly and monthly: Weekly and monthly usually cited by date only, even if there are issues and volume numbers available	Elliott, Michael. 2001. Embracing the enemy is good business. Time, August 8. George, Rebecca. 2004. Lucy: Grandmother to humanity. Smithsonian, September.
Online-found through a library database	George, Rebecca. 2004. Lucy: Grandmother to humanity. Smithsonian, September. http://www.epnet.com/ (accessed May 27, 2005).
Newspaper Article	Citation
In print-author known	Epstein, Edward. 2005. It's that time again:

	Lawmakers revisit daylight saving. San Francisco Chronicle, April 9, 2005, final edition.
In print-author unknown	New York Times. 1995. Corporations adopt on site nurseries. April 19.
Online-found using a library database	Epstein, Edward. 2005. It's that time again: Lawmakers revisit daylight saving. San Francisco Chronicle, April 9, 2005, final edition. http://www.lexis-nexis.com/ (accessed May 16, 2005).
Online news service/site	Sahadi, Jeanna. 2005. Bankruptcy bill passes in House. CNN.com, April 14, 2005. http://www.cnn.com/2005/Polit/house/bankr.html (accessed May 24, 2005)
Website	Citation
Websites (Not online news sites)	Sullivan, Danny. Boolean searching. Search Engine Watch. http://www.searchenginewatch.com/boolean/howto.html (accessed 20 may 2003)
Websites, no author known: Owner of site may be used in place of author	Buddhist Instruction Retreat. Fundamental Buddhism explained. http://www.fundamentalbuddhism.com/buddhism.html (accessed 21 may 2005)

Students must use the method described above to indicate which sections of their written work contain the work of others. That is, either in the form of a direct quotation from other published works or in the form of a summary of ideas and points made by someone else. Students must stick to the chosen referencing style for the whole writing assignment. Acknowledging the work of other scholars in this way is vital. Failure to acknowledge the work of others is known as plagiarism and is regarded as a serious offence by the University.

Other styles students will sometimes see in students' reading are the APA (American Psychological Association) style or the Chicago Style. The information here is extensively drawn from a Website of the Maryland University Libraries network (2006a), which in-text uses source manuals. The APA style is detailed at Maryland University Libraries (2006b) and Chicago at Maryland University Libraries (2006c).

Other forms of in-text referencing:

APA:

Source Details	Citation
Basic form: Author's last name, a comma, and the publication date. If you're citing a direct quote, always put the page number	(Jones, 2003) (Jones, 2003, p.24) for direct quote
Specific section referred to	(Jones, 2003, chap. 4)
Two authors with the same name: Add initials	(G. J. Jordan, 1976; M. E. Jordan, 1984)
2 authors: Include both names	(Jones & Holloway, 2003)
3-5 authors: Give all names the first time, then just the first, followed by "et al." in subsequent citations	(Jones, Holloway, Smith, Jordan, & Hurley, 2003) (Jones et al., 2003)
6 authors: First author's name followed by "et al."	(Jones et al., 2003)
No author: Use the first few words of the References list entry; use quotations around an article title and italicize a book or periodical title	("Uses of Color", 2003) (Work Study Programs, 2002)
More than one source in a reference: Arrange in alphabetical order and use semicolons to separate	(Jordan, 1976; Smith, 1987; Yarrow, 2002)

Chicago:

Source Details	Citation
Basic form: Author's last name and the publication date. If your're citing a direct quote, always put the page number.	(Holmlund 2002) (Craton and Saunders 1992)

Other final full referencing styles:

APA style
Sources listed in alphabetical order by author's name and then by date.

Book	Citation
1 Author: Invert for alphabetizing and use initials for first and middle names	Bagby, J. W. (2003). The cyberlaw handbook for e-commerce. Mason, OH: Thompson / South-western West.
3 Editors: Multiple authors' (or editors') last names should be connected with "&" rather than "and"; Omit "Co." and "Inc." but keep "Press" and "Books" in publisher's names	Smith, J. P., Brown, J. K. & Enkunde, C. W. (Eds.). (2002). The history of the World Wide Web. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press.
7 Authors/2nd Edition: List and invert the first six names, add "et al." for the seventh and subsequent	Baumer, D. L., Poindexter, J. C., M. L., Hatleberg, J. N., Cunningham, M. L., Harvey, D. J., et al. (2002). Cyberlaw and e-commerce. (2nd ed.). Boston: McGraw Hill.
Chapter in an edited multi-author book	Heller, C. H. (2001). Gender roles in Ethiopian culture. In A. D. Gottlieb & H. J. Franco (Eds.), Gender in cross-cultural perspective (pp. 46-73). Louisville, KY: Pilgrim Press.
Dictionary Entry	Citation
In print-unsigned entry	Pearsall, J. & Trumbull, T. (Eds.). (2002). Internet. The Oxford English reference dictionary (2nd ed.). Oxford: Oxford University Press.
In print-signed entry	Edward, S. N. (2001). Electronic Commerce. In Freedman, A. (Ed.), The computer glossary: The complete illustrated dictionary. New York: Macmillan.
Online-from a Website	Electronic commerce. (2004). Dictionary.com. Retrieved March 14, 2004 from htt://dictionary.reference.com
Dissertation	Citation
In	Fitzpartick, K. J. (2003). Effects of mowing on the print-unpublished-that doesn't appear in Dissertation Abstracts International	selection of raptor foraging habitat. Unpublished doctoral dissertation, University of Maryland, College Park.

Abstract of a dissertation from an online library database (not DAI)	Golden, N. H. (2003). Monitoring of organic and heavy metal contaminants in wild that isn't DAI life: Nonlethal methods and species selection. [Abstract] Retrieved March 24, 2004, from Digital Dissertations database.
Editorial and Letter to the Editor	Citation
In Print-no author	"Death to NAFTA." (2003, may 20) [Editorial]. Baltimore Sun, p. B3.
In Print-no author	Smith, C. G. (2004, February 2). School uniforms should be mandatory [Letter to the Editor]. The Washington Times, p. A21.
Online-from a Website	"Drowning in Spam." (2004, February 12) [Editorial]. The Washington Times. Retrieved March 23, 2004, from http://www.washingtontimes.com.
Online-found using a library database	Hunter, H. Y., & Hunter, M. T. (2003, June 24) [Letter to the Editor]. The Washington Post. Retrieved March 30, 2004, from LexisNexis Academic.
Encyclopedia	Citation
In print	Silverman, G. H. (2002). Sagan, Carl Edward. In The Encyclopedia Americana (Vol. 21, pp. 45-46). Danbury, CT: Grolier.
Online-from a Website	Carl Sagan. (2004). Retrieved March 23, 2004, from http://www.encyclopedia.com/html/s/sagan-c1a.asp.
Government Document	Citation
In print	United States Department of Agriculture. (2001). Irrigation: A National Research Plan (Publication number FSHED 23). Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office.
Online-from a Website	Bureau of Justice Statistics. (2001). Trends in Violent Victimization: 1980-2000. Retrieved April 14, 2005, from http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/pub/pdf/huy00.pdf.

Journal	Citation
Journal with continuous pagination throughout the annual volume: Include volume number	Smith, J. L., & Farmer, C. N. (2004). Ways of coping with obesity: A ten year study. Journal of the American Medical Association, 291, 527-529.
Journal without continuous pagination: Include volume and issue number	James, E. W. (2000). Obesity in American school children: An epidemic. Journal of Nursing 389(3), 32-38.
Journal that uses issue numbers only-no volume numbers: Include month, season, (or however it is identified) with the year	Smith, J. (2001, Spring). Obesity among adolescents: A nationwide study. Journal of American Health, 18-30.
Online-using the citation below found through the library database Academic Search Premier: Not necessary to include the URL of library subscription databases	Stem, C. J., Lassoie, J. P., Lee, D. R. & Deshler, D. J. (2003). How 'eco' is ecotourism? A comparative case study of ecotourism in Costa Rica. Journal of Sustainable Tourism, 11, 322-348. Retrieved March 23, 2005, from the Academic Search Premier database.
Magazine Article	Citation
In print-weekly with volume number:	Business ethics for the rich and famous? (1992, June 15). Time, 150, 24-27.
In print-weekly without volume number: Use "p." or "pp." before the page numbers	Lavell, L. T., & Borrus, A. J. (2004, January 26). Ethics 101 for CEOs. Business Week, p.88.
In print-monthly	Elliott, M. L. (2001, August). Alcohol consumption during prohibition. Smithsonian Magazine, 130, 43-46.
Online-using the	Roman, M. (2003, December 29). Son of NAFTA?

citation below found through the library database Academic Search Premier: Not necessary to include the URL of library subscription database	Business Week, pp. 50-58. Retrieved March 24, 2004, from Academic Search Premier database.
Newspaper	Citation
In Print: Use "p." or "pp." before page numbers	Epstein, E. (2005, April 9). It's that time again: Lawmakers revisit daylight saving. San Francisco Chronicle, pp. A1, A10.
Online-using the citation below found through the library database Lexis Nexis Academic	Howden, D. (2005, February 12). Polio at Mecca sparks fear for Muslim thousands. Independent. Retrieved April 14, 2005, from LexisNexis Academic database.
Videocassette and DVD	Citation
Videocassette	Massiah, L., & Rockefeller, T. K. (Directors). (1999). Power! 1967-1968 [Videotape]. Boston, MA: Public Broadcasting Service.
DVD	Bakshi, R. (Director). (2000). Heavy Traffic [DVD]. Los Angeles, CA: Metro Goldwyn Mayer Home Entertainment.
Website	Citation
Websites	Sullivan, D. (Ed.). (2005). Boolean searching. Retrieved April 14, 2005, from http://searchenginewatch.com/facts/article.php/2155991.
Websites, no author known Begin with the title	Fundamental Buddhism explained. (2005). Retrieved March 23, 2005, from http://fundatmentalbuddhsim.com/buddhism.html.
Websites, no publication date known	Bratton, A. (n.d.). Feminist Anthropology. Retrieved June 2, 2005, from http://www.indiana.edu/wanthro/fem.htm.

Chicago style Sources listed in alphabetical order by author's name and then by date.
Book	Citation
Single author, 1st edition	Donald N. McCloskey, Enterprise and Trade in Victorian Britain: Essays in Historical Economics (London: George Allen and Unwin, 1981), 54.
Single author, later edition	Donald N. McCloskey, The Applied Theory of Price, 2nd ed. (New York: Macmillan, 1985), 24.
2 or 3 authors	Donald A. Lloyd and Harry R. Warfel, American English and Its Cultural Setting (New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1956), 12.
Article	Citation
Journal article	Louise M. Rosenblatt, "The Transactional Theory: Against Dualisms," College English 54 (1993): 380.
Book Review	Steven Spitzer, review of The Limits of Law Enforcement, by Hans Zeisel, American Journal of Sociology 91 (1985): 727.
Newspaper article	Tyler Marshall, "200th Birthday of Grimms Celebrated," Los Angeles Times, 15 March 1985, sec. 1A, p. 3.
Dissertation or thesis	Citation
	James E. Hoard, "On the Foundations of Phonological Theory" (Ph.D. diss., University of Washington, 1967), 119.
Websites	Citation
Personal Site	Joseph Pellegrino, "Homepage," 12 May 1999.
Professional Site	Gail Mortimer, The William Faulkner Society Home Page, 16 September 1999., http://utep.edu/mortimer/faulkner/mainfaulker.htm (19 November 1997).
Article in an electronic journal (ejournal)	Tonya Browning, "Embedded Visuals: Student Design in Web Spaces," Kairos: A Journal for Teachers of Writing in Webbed Environments 3, no. 1 (1997), http://english.ttu.edu/kairos/2.1/features/browning/index.html. (21 October 1999).
Collection	Citation

	Richard W. Mansbach, "The New Order in Northwest Asia: A Theoretical Overview," in Manwoo Lee and Richard W. Mansbach, eds., The Changing Order in Northeast Asia and the Korean Peninsula (Seoul: IFES, Kyunnam University, 1993).

References

Lingnan University. How to prepare citations using the author-date system, http://www.ln.edu.hk/tran/info/authordate.html. (accessed 20 April 2006).

Martin, B. (1984). Plagiarism and responsibility. Journal of Tertiary Educational Administration, 6, 183-190.

Martin, B. (1994). Plagiarism: a misplaced emphasis. Journal of Information Ethics, 3(2), 36-47.

Maryland University Libraries. (2006a). Academic Honesty and Plagiarism, http://www.lib.umd.edu/UES/honesty.html. (accessed 22 June 2006).

Maryland University Libraries. (2006b). Citing sources using the APA style manual, http://www.lib.umd.edu/UES/citing_apa.html. (accessed 20 April 2006).

Maryland University Libraries. (2006c). Citing sources using the Chicago/Turabian Style: In-text parenthetical method, http://www.lib.umd.edu/UES/citing_chicad.html. (accessed 20 April 2006).

Student handbook 2005. The City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong.

Summers, D. (Eds.). (1987). Longman dictionary of contemporary English. Essex: Longman.